DISORDER ALL NIGHT AT BAYONNE

CHEMICAL WORKER IS SLAIN BY STRIKERS'
FRIENDS, CLAIM.

SEARCH FOR WEAPONS

ARMED MOTOR BOATS
PROTECTING OIL
WHARVES.

BAYONNE, N. J., Oct. 13.—Another murder was early today added to the fatality list growing out of the Lidevater Oil Company strike.

An unidentified employee of the General Chemical Company was shot to death and, according to police reports, the shooting was done by a group of ten or twelve strikers or sympathizers. The oil strikers have been trying to extend the walkout to the Chemical Company and, according to the police, the slain man was one of a committee of General Chemical Company employees who appealed to Commissioner of Public Safety Henry Wilson for protection.

Rioting continued throughout the night and it was estimated that more than 1,000 shots were fired in the darkness. Houses in the Constable Hook section of Bayonne look as though they had been through a siege.

About two hundred shots were exchanged between the police and a band of strikers that tried to set the oil company's plant on fire.

In an effort to put an end to the violence which has already cost three lives, police department officials said that an armed squad of 300 men would be sent out at noon to search the homes of strikers for weapons.

Daylight found armed police patrolling the streets that were held on Wednesday by the strikers. More stores had been broken into during the night, however.

Commissioner of Public Safety Wilson said that an armed boat would be put in commission to carry to their work all the employees of the General Chemical Company who wish to return.

Attempts by strike sympathizers to start fires on the water front has resulted in the equipment of a Standard Oil fleet of speedy motor boats with rapid fire guns and armor to protect wharves.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Many persons were injured in street car strike rioting in Harlem early today. Ten cars were attacked and damaged and traffic brought to a standstill. The worst violence centered around 116th street where women took part in the fighting.

With suddenness that took the police unawares, 1,500 men, women and boys spread along Madison avenue from 115th to 118 streets and through 116th street. Motormen on the cars put on speed and dashed through the mob at top speed while stones and other missiles smashed through the windows. The passengers threw themselves upon the floor but many were badly cut by flying glass and stones.

Police reserves were rushed to the scene and furious fighting followed.

ANOTHER MYSTERY IN CLEVELAND MURDER

CLEVELAND, Oct. 13.—The finding of the badly beaten body of a man in a field near Broadway and the Nickle Plate tracks today gave police what is believed to be another murder mystery to unravel. The body, that of an unidentified man, was so far from the railroad tracks that the theory he was struck by a train is untenable, police say. Robbery probably was the motive. The victim's clothing is of good quality.

SEVEN 'DEAD' ONES FOUND IN A CELL

BUCYRUS, O., Oct. 13.—Jimmy Cannon, arrested for drunkenness, was put in jail. Another man was arrested and six bottles of beer were taken from him. These were placed outside the cell.

Near Cannon was a broom. On the broom was some wire, which Cannon unwrapped. Then he fished for the beer from his cell. When the turnkey made his next round he saw in Cannon's cell six empty and one full one—or seven dead ones in all.

WILSON SCORES THE ATTEMPTED REVIVAL OF SECTIONALISM

Declares Those Who Try It
Are Unworthy of Confidence.

"If I Don't Put Up I Am Ready to Shut Up,"
He Declares.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 13.—President Wilson yesterday replied to the republican charge that the democratic party is a sectional party, with the statement that "any man who revives the issue of sectionalism in this country is unworthy of the confidence of the nation."

The president came to Indianapolis to address meetings of good roads advocates and farmers, review an automobile parade celebrating Good Roads day of the Indiana Centennial, and attend a nonpartisan lunch of leading Indians. He was greeted by crowds which packed the streets.

In his first set speech he spoke of the good done by highways in preventing sectionalism.

"My fellow citizens," he continued, "I need not tell you that I did not come here to talk politics, but there is one thing that is pertinent in this connection which I can not deny myself the privilege of saying.

Calls Him a Provincial.
"Any man who revives the issue of sectionalism in this country is unworthy of the confidence of the nation. He shows himself a provincial; he shows that he himself does not know the various sections of his own country; he shows that he has shut his own heart up in a little province, and that those who

BRITISH PLAN ONLY 5,465 HAVE TRACTION CARS SUBMARINE RAID REGISTERED TWO IN CRASH, FOUR ON ATLANTIC MORE DAYS LEFT PERSONS HURT

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 13.—Fifteen United States destroyers are today patrolling the Atlantic coast all the way from New York to Maine to perform the double duty of protecting American neutrality and saving passengers and seamen from any more merchant ships that may have been sunk by German submarines.

It is understood here that all of the reserve torpedo flotilla fleet at Charleston, S. C., will be called into active service at once for patrol duty.

Ten destroyers are being held in Newport harbor for emergency duty in case of submarine attacks against merchant ships or in the event that they are needed at points where American neutrality is threatened.

The unsigned "S. O. S." call picked up off Charleston yesterday proved a fake.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—British naval authorities are preparing for a series of German submarine raids on this side of the Atlantic. It was learned in diplomatic circles today that information has reached both England and France that several flotillas of submarines will leave Germany shortly headed for this side to make an organized attempt to halt and sink munition and supply ships. These vessels will operate in twos and threes to meet the problem growing out of the fact that hereafter all Anglo-French merchantmen will be armed "for defense."

In order to meet the problem it is expected here that certain freight and munition will be diverted from ports south of Nantucket.

A safe refuge will be provided for ships, probably by netting the Bay of Fundy and St. John harbor while as now is in force off Northern Scotland and the Irish coast will be made effective.

It is realization of these probable developments that has caused the grave feeling of anxiety in administration circles. There is no doubt that the line between cruiser warfare, as considered legal by the United States and submarine practices which have been penalized by President Wilson with the statement that the diplomatic relations will be broken off if they are resumed is very minute.

If a submarine torpedoed a merchant vessel which has used its guns for defense it may be hard to discover exactly whether this action was justifiable, especially if an American citizen should lose his or her life. It is expected that Secretary Lansing will make another visit to Shadow Lawn to talk further with the president about the submarine issue.

YONKERS, N. Y.—Miss Anna Shea, who captured an armed burglar after he had shot and wounded a policeman, has been crowned Queen of the Chamber of Commerce carnival.

Almost Half of Lima Voters Must Still Insure Votes.

WHARTON OUT AGAIN

Kenton Socialist Persists in Effort to Get on the Ballot.

By David W. Bowman.
Only a few more than half of the voters of Lima have registered. Two of the four registration days are over, and there are still nearly 5,000 men in Lima who must register October 20 and 21 or lose their votes this year.

The total number of voters to register yesterday was 2,808. A week ago, October 5, was 2,657, making a total to date of 5,465. The democratic poll of the county shows that there are now in the city of Lima more than 10,000 voters, and the addition of new territory since 1912 partially accounts for it. The common belief has been that about 8,500 or 9,000 voters resided in the city will be a fair estimate for a state or municipal election, but it must be borne in mind that only on presidential elections—and not always then—can anything like a full vote be obtained.

Nine women have registered in Lima, but as there is no school board election this year they will not be able to get in on the election of November 7. One registered in precinct F of the second ward last week, and eight more registered yesterday, distributed as follows: two in Second E, two in Third D, three in Fourth G and one in Fourth I.

The gain over the last registration day is only 151, and while in many wards the number jumped considerably there were others in which the registration fell off. The total for October 5 and October 12, by precincts, is as follows:

Ward and Precinct	Oct. 5	Oct. 12
First A	67	80
First B	88	85
First C	79	72
First D	26	42
First E	75	72

Motorman W. L. Gerlock of Waterville, had his foot injured and three passengers were bruised and badly shaken up when train No. 55, on the Lima-Toledo division of the Ohio Electric railway, due into Lima at 9:30 o'clock, crashed into the switcher, an extra train, near the junction of the Lima-Defiance and Lima-Toledo divisions at 9:20 o'clock this morning. Passengers injured were George M. Williams of 784 West Wayne street; Arva Pemberton of London, Ohio, farmer, and James Risk of Lima. Of the three, Risk is the most injured, his leg being hurt.

Conductor Frank Lois of Waterville, was in charge of the train, which was running late and was trying, according to the information imparted by Motorman Gerlock, to make the double tracks by 9:26 o'clock. The switcher was running extra and was supposed to take care of himself.

Motorman Gerlock had just rounded the curve after crossing the junction line of the old C., L. & M. run-

ALLIED PLANES IN GERMANY

England About to Start Drastic Conscript-tion to Raise a Million More Men for Last Great Drive.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—Formal declaration of war is expected to be made by the revolutionary government in Greece against Bulgaria. General Zimbrakakis, who has been sworn in as revolutionary minister of war by M. Venizelos has already started to collect an army and Venizelos, the head of the revolutionary movement will issue a proclamation shortly calling Greeks of military age to the revolutionary colors.

A despatch from Athens, printed in the Times today, stated that the Greek navy was taken over by the allies as the result of the discovery of a conspiracy. According to this telegram officers of the Greek fleet were plotting with anti-entente sympathizers to concentrate Greece's navy on the Thessalonian coast in the rear of the allied armies.

Rumors that King Constantine may abdicate are again current.

ALBANY, N. Y.—Excitement reigned among the girl employees of the capitol when the state health department posted a bulletin in the corridors which reads, "Kissing on the mouth, especially children, should be discouraged."

PARIS, Oct. 13.—Austro-Hungarian losses in the fighting on the Carso plateau since the opening of the new Italian offensive are estimated at 15,000 by the war correspondent of the Petit Parisien at Udine.

Fierce fighting continues between Oppachiasella and the Verobica river, southeast of Gorizia, where the Italians are making a mighty effort to cut through to Trieste. On the Carso plateau at least 60 Austro-Hungarian battalions still face the Italian army.

The Austro-Hungarians have made violent counter attacks but all have been repulsed, according to the Petit Parisien's correspondent.

Austrian artillery, protected by the crags that flank the plateau, has developed a terrific fire against the new trenches of the Italians and the communicating roads in the rear of the Italian lines are being swept with a rain of steel.

Attempts by the Austro-Hungarians to create a diversion by attacking in the Arsa valley, on the slopes of Monte Pasubio and in the Julian Alps were all repulsed with heavy losses, according to official news from Rome. Heavy artillery duels continue along the front.

ture of the important Greek city of Seres from the Bulgarians by the British is imminent is indicated by official advices reaching here today from Salonika. A British cavalry column has reached the outskirts of Seres, dispersing the Bulgarians that tried to stop it.

Seres was occupied by the Bulgarians on their drive into Greek Macedonia during the summer. The city is east of the Struma river and 13 miles south of Demirhisar. It lies on the Saloniki-Dedeagatch railroad at the foot of the Kapakli mountains.

ENGLAND WILL CONSCRIPT.

Million More Men Must Be Secured,
Lloyd-George Declares.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—A more drastic application of conscription in England and a probable attempt to extend it to Ireland is seen today in War Secretary Lloyd-George's speech in commons last night. The war secretary's statement that there is no doubt about the country's man power and reserves, but that it is difficult to get at them under present conditions, is taken to indicate a complete change of program on the part of the government. War Secretary Lloyd-George's words are believed to show that no time will be lost in the raising of 1,000,000 more men that the government feels it necessary to get, to continue the war successfully.

PARIS, Oct. 13.—Artillery duels were reported in four sectors on the western front in the official communique given out by the French war office today. There was minor infantry fighting.

According to the communique there were big gun exchanges throughout the night in the sectors of Morval and Bouchavesnes on the Somme front, in the region of Chaumes and in the vicinity of Abailcourt. Elsewhere on the front the night was calm.

PARIS, Oct. 13.—A squadron of 40 French and British aeroplanes has bombarded the great Mauser gun works at Obendorf-on-Neckar, in Germany. News of the raid was contained in an official communique given out by the French war office today. German aeroplanes ascended to give battle to the raiders and a big sky engagement followed. Six German machines were shot down.

Four tons of explosives were dropped on the Mauser works and it is believed damage was done.

PARIS, Oct. 13.—General Joffre, the French commander-in-chief, today issued the following general order, declaring that it is the sacred obligation and imperative military duty of every Frenchman to subscribe to the new war loan:

"Let our soldiers, who spare no pains to give their lives, avoid all unnecessary expenditures and buy bonds with their spare cash to help France procure the costly and effective materials which open the way for attack. The more money France has the better able she is to lavish munitions, thus economizing human lives, expediting victory and shortening the war."

WATCH YOUR STEP ITS FRIDAY THE 13TH

Today was the only one in the calendar year when the thirteenth fell on Friday. Naturally, nearly every one was saying "Watch Your Step," for the number of superstitious people in the world are still in the majority. Many people believe it to be a lucky day.

So if anything unusual happens today, blame it to Friday and the thirteenth. You will not have another chance to do so in 1916.

EVIDENCE?

Our esteemed contemporary, The Gazette, has fallen into the habit of believing, with the various candidates on the ticket they are supporting, that the present prosperity of the United States is born of the munitions boom. When the assertion is made by Hughes himself we cannot but commend our contemporary for accepting it as sincere and in good faith. But in the back files we find a little light on the subject.

In the Gazette of August 1, 1915, is a story headed: "Bank Clearings of July Break Every Record for Month. Total $2,106,914 and Nearly Reaches 'Top Mark.' Half-way down the column we find this chunk of information:

Up to August of last year, when the European war began, every month showed an increase over the corresponding month of 1915, but beginning with August every month showed a decrease as compared with the previous month, until June of this year, when the upward turn was first shown. June of this year like July made the highest total for that month on record.

Farther down is the statement: "Bank clearings and postal receipts are usually taken as approximate barometers of trend of trade."

What's this, here? The Republicans have been telling us—Willis and J. Hampered Moore, for instance—that immediately after Wilson entered the White House and the tariff law was started, the nation went into a panic and only the war pulled us out of it. Senator Gore tells us that the nation was slightly depressed in spots after the tariff law, as it is every time a tariff law is passed, and that as the readjustment of trade was about completed the war came along and set the nation back for a few months. Which is right.

The G. O. P. organ in Lima tells us that bank clearings are a good indication of the trend, that they were increasing in 1914 over those of 1913, that the war sent them down until June, 1915, came along.

It appears that there is well supported by the local press.

The President's Column

CONSTITUTIONAL GOVERNMENT. Ladies and gentlemen; you would not consider radical sometimes desire me to do so. But there is this now because I venture to remind you of the principles upon which this republic was founded, and I am a radical, because they all agree with Jefferson, if it is radical to quote Washington anything at all. He is living every along with Jefferson, if it is radical to quote Hamilton along with the leaders of the old democratic party, order that he himself may obtain I am a radical, because they all agree with one accord that the essentials of constitutional government was that the people had a right to choose their own government when they chose.—At Jersey City, May 2, 1913.

PRINCIPLES.

The only difficult things in life are the applications of the principles of right and wrong. I can set forth the abstract principles of right and wrong; and so can you. But when it comes down to an individual item of conduct—whether in public affairs or private affairs—there comes the pinch. In the first place, to see the right way to do it, and, in the second place, to do it that way. If we could only agree that in all matters of public concern we would adjourn our private interests, look each other frankly in the face and say: "We are all ready at whatever sacrifice of our common interests to do in common the thing that our common weal demands," what an irresistible force America would wield.—To Motion Picture Board of Trade, New York, January 27, 1916.

INDIVIDUAL OPINIONS.

We do not take orders from anybody. It is a universal communication of conviction, the most subtle, delicate, and difficult of processes. There is not a single individual's opinion that is not of some consequence in making up the grand total, and to be in this great co-operative effort is the most stimulating thing in the world.—To D. A. R., Washington, October 11, 1915.

WAR.

I can never speak in praise of war.

TAMMANY HALL.

This big grim building in downtown New York is to most Americans merely the symbol of a modern political machine; few know anything of the long story back of it. As a matter of fact, Tammany is a name filled with memories of the spacious days of old New York—the New York coffee houses and comfortable Dutchmen and famous Indian braves, the New York that Irving immortalized.

In those days shortly after the revolution, there were a great many societies formed under the names of saints. Thus there were societies of St. Andrew and St. David and St. George, and a number of others. Some of the leading New York merchants thought that a society with an indigenous saint for a patron would be a proper innovation. Tammany had been a famous chief of the Delaware Indians, and since his death had become a sort of legendary hero. These merchants canonized him as a saint and took him as the patron of the new society. They adopted Indian rites and wore Indian costumes as ceremonial robes.

The rise of the Tammany society as a political power began early. The powerful Creek Indians of Georgia and Alabama were causing much trouble, and a delegation of their chiefs was invited to New York for the purpose of negotiating a treaty. The Tammany society received the Indians in full Indian regalia, and entertained them at a banquet where a highly ornamented peace pipe was passed around. The Indians were delighted with these attentions, and with the adoption of their dress and customs by the white men. So Tammany rendered its first service to the state.

THE TIBETANS.

The Tibetans are not beautiful. How could they be when by their own confession the national ancestry runs back to the king of the monkeys and hobgoblins?

Bonvalot says of them, "The very beard are better looking." The type is midway between the Eskimo and the Chinese. Broad, flat noses, without visible bridge; no eyebrows, wide mouths, full lips, oily skins, hair as coarse and straight as horsehair and short, square, ungainly figures—these are the elements of the unpleasant picture.—Exchange.

REAL, NEVERTHELESS.

"What is the political difference," inquired the man from back home. "Between the citizen who is about to vote and the citizen who has already voted?"

"A mere distinction of terms," responded Congressman Hammett. "The one who is about to vote is a good fellow, while he whose ballot already has been cast is a good thing."—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

PUBLIC FORUM

ANYTHING TO BEAT WILSON.

To the Editor of The Times-Democrat:

Ex-Justice Hughes and ex-President Roosevelt think any method to beat Wilson is justifiable. Not a day passes that a new life is not started by these standpat worthies. Mr. Hughes stated in his New York speech that President Wilson had withdrawn the warships from Tampico in the spring of 1914, and that Americans whose lives were imperiled there or in the vicinity were forced to seek protection under the British flag, because the United States had failed to safeguard the rights of American citizens.

Admiral Mayo, who was in command of the United States fleet at Tampico at that time, asked and was granted permission to make a statement and promptly denied that any warships had been withdrawn. The British consul stated that no American had sought refuge on British ships. A question of veracity is raised between Admiral Mayo and Mr. Hughes. It goes without saying that the American people will accept the admiral's statement instead of that of the republican candidate. Mr. Roosevelt says Admiral Mayo is a liar, and the truth is not in him. The alleged discoverer of a river in Brazil, which was on the map before Roosevelt was on the earth, is not always careful to observe the commandment against bearing false witness.

Admiral Fletcher, at Vera Cruz, ordered the ships at Tampico to join him, but learning of the dangerous situation there countermanded his order, and the fleet did not sail.

Admiral Mayo reported that 2,100 Americans—all that applied for protection—were received on board his ships. No official orders were sent from Washington to withdraw any part of the squadron.

Ex-Justice Hughes, ex-President Roosevelt, for a distinctly partisan purpose, try to smear the American navy. Could anything be more infamous?

N. C. A. RAYHOUSER

A CONTRAST.

To the Editor of The Times-Democrat:

Mr. Hughes has been on the "stump" for more than two months. In none of his speeches has he discussed fairly and logically a question before the public during the campaign. He has not answered one democratic argument advanced by the president or any defender of the administration. He has quibbled and juggled words, but replied to no questions propounded by his opponents. He has been evasive when forced to make a statement; silent when he should be candid with the people.

Contrast this course with that of President Wilson. He faces his audiences as an honest and fearless man should. He evades no question. He tells the people that he is a candid standing on his record and ready to be judged by his deeds and not by his words.

Mr. Roosevelt, four years ago declared that "the republican party is not capable of dealing with present day problems," that "the republican party machine" was turned over to the powers that prey and "those ridden and privileged class" controlled. If Mr. Roosevelt's characterization of republicanism is correct—and no well-informed person doubts it—no one will be surprised that republican orators prefer to throw mud to logical argument.

January 29, 1915, President Wilson said: "All I ask is that if anything is being done that ought not to be done, the fault in it be pointed out and the way to correct the mistake be explicitly shown." None of his critics have done so.

WILKINS SWITCHES FROM PET THEORY DOWN AT ST. MARYS

Socialist Leader Fails to Convince His Former Comrades.

Scott Wilkins, who shares with Edwin Blank the joint rulership of the Lima socialist local organization, seems to be getting in bad down at St. Marys with his former comrades. In Lima Wilkins is an ardent advocate of municipal ownership but at St. Marys he is opposing his pet theory. The St. Marys Leader yesterday has this report of Scott's latest escapade:

"Scott Wilkins, who in the fall of 1911, was elected mayor of the city of St. Marys on the socialist ticket through the public fear that the Western Ohio Railway company was about to steal the municipal electric light plant and who for two years seemed to be honest in his desire to protect the public utilities of this city against exploitation, appeared at the Grand opera house Wednesday evening in the strange role of tool of the same special interest. A few weeks ago, when the announcement was made that Scott had turned traitor to the cause of socialism and had agreed to deliver his former comrades of this city into the hands of the enemy, there was a regular storm of indignation among the members of the party who are wedded to the fundamental principle of municipal ownership, and Scott was lambasted fore and after because of his treachery to the cause. In order to mollify his former party associates, he caused it to be made known that at the psychological time—the occasion of his speech at the Grand opera house last night—he would endeavor to square himself with those whom he had presumed to betray by turning the meeting into a socialistic love-feast. In the course of his long-drawn-out, belabored, incoherent, disconnected harangue he did make several weak attempts to square himself, but there were those in the audience to whom he had bartered away his political birthright, and they were there to see that he 'stayed hitched'.

Like a Fire Alarm.
"In the early part of the meeting there was a good attendance—possibly 200 people in all—a majority of whom are for municipal ownership and had gone there expecting to hear something interesting, if not sensation. Before Scott had proceeded with his tirade half an hour the exodus from the building was under full swing, and ere the curtain had been rung down on the farce comedy, only a corporal's guard remained. Scott may not be a howling success at filling an opera house, but when it comes to emptying it, he is a sensation. Why, it would pay those institutions which are so studiously endeavoring to spread the gospel of 'Safety First' to employ Scott in lieu of the usual fire-alarm apparatus!"

POLICE VERIFYING LOOTER'S STORY

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—Police today are trying to make up a list of the places to which Adam Prohock has confessed and obtaining $100,000 worth of loot. In each instance he has reformed his victims by means of a hitherto unheard of contrivance of his which conveyed a drug-saturated bag without making it necessary for Prohock to approach close to them.

The robberies, which were committed exclusively in wealthy homes, cover such a long period of time that the police doubt their ability to catalog all of them. Brohock said he never went armed and never had occasion to injure a victim. He is a graduate of the University of Warsaw.

Realized It Would Be Close.
The moment the razor touched his face, the man in the chair realized that he was in the hands of an amateur. "Will you have a close shave, sir?" asked the barber. "It looks like it," returned the victim, moodily. "At present the odds against my getting out of this chair alive seem very heavy, indeed."—Boston Transcript.

Preparedness.
Young Aldrich was waiting in the parlor for his loved one to appear, when her small brother came in and took a seat. "Well, Chester," said Aldrich, "what did your sister say when you told her I was waiting?" "Why, she didn't say nothing," replied the small brother. "She just took a ring off one finger and put it on another."—Life.

20,000 ATTENDING AT ONE SCHOOL FOR MACHINE GUNNERS

Once Mere Regimental Side
Show Now of Prime Import.
Training Ground in War
Zone is More Than Mile Long.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—How 20,000 British soldiers are learning to operate the machine gun in a single school is told today by a writer signing himself "E. T. C." in a London newspaper. He says:

"Once upon a time"—which today means anything before August, 1914—the machine-gun in England was merely a regimental side-show, something dimly associated with the battalion mile, something that required an amount of cleaning out of all proportion to the amount of ammunition allowed to it.

In that "once upon a time" the Machine Gun School was a small department of a not very pretentious musketry camp. It was attended by a select few, who found they had a fortnight's superfluous energy after learning the elements of the rifle.

The other day I was privileged to see the Machine Gun Training Center as it exists today. It took me an hour to walk from end to end of it.

As it happened, my train brought a batch of recruits, a hundred men from a Scottish Infantry depot, specially picked men you could see at a glance, marching with a swing that showed they were novices only in the limited machine-gun sense.

I followed in their dust through the town of Z, out beyond to what had once been a mighty park with pleasant pastures and shaded paths. Paths there were still in plenty, but precious little pasture and devil a bit of shade. I passed the sentry, presented my credentials, and found myself with the freedom of a new city, a city, I afterwards learned, with some thousands of inhabitants, yet over growing. I will call this wooden city Gunville.

The reception bureau claims first attention. My hundred recruits are there undergoing a preliminary inspection, for though they are "selected birds" they have been selected by the officer who is losing them, and it is just possible that his view will not entirely coincide with the views of the C. O. (commanding officer), Gunville.

This proves to be the case, and 15 sorrowful men go back by the next suitable train to acquire further merit. For Gunville wants the best, men of quick intelligence as well as broad shoulders, and they must be delivered as per specifications.

In six weeks or so each one of that floating population of 20,000 must become a specialist and go onward to deal death at so many hundred rounds a minute, or go backwards to the place whence he came. Surprisingly few go back. One's friends are apt to be unkind about it.

It is impossible in a brief impression to give more than an idea of the extreme thoroughness of Gunville. Many a neutral, however friendly, comes to England with a notion that everything in the way of war organization will be slipshod and patchy. If he gets his inspiration from the man in the street and neglects to probe deeper he will probably go away with the idea unaltered.

But given the chance to see the inner workings as I have done, he will find he is very much mistaken. There have been mistakes, of course, but every mistake has been a lesson. The truth is that the genius of Kitchener and Lloyd George has called up an organization which is unsurpassed and unconquerable. Gunville is only a case in point, just one of a hundred parts in a great machine which works more smoothly every day.

Granted that the raw material is good, it is converted into the finished article with incredible swiftness. I watched the evolution of a machine gunner from start to finish as he passed from group to group, saw his mechanical interest aroused and directed, saw his eye trained, witnessed his delight when the machine at last became his servant and spluttered out its pellets to the proper detriment of its target. I followed him also in his off-hours, and acquired in the process some insight into the mystery of Britain's success. To the uninitiated it only seemed incredible that a nation whose ideals were all bound up in peace should stand up successfully as a nation bred to the idea of war.

I lunched at the headquarter mess. Officers from 30 or 40 different regiments dropped in, a hundred or so at a time, mostly officers under instruction, with a sprinkling of more seasoned material wearing the armlet of the instructor. A bare half-hour or so for lunch and a cigarette and they were off again to their classes or their squads. The talk—tell it not in Gath—was largely "shop." Every man there was "diligent in his business" and was not ashamed to show it.

The service at that mess, to everything else at Gunville, showed the perfection of organization. The arrangements were in the hands of the women's legion. A service by women in a military mess is a revolution indeed, but there have been many revolutions of this sort in England.

Amos Lugibihl of the firm of Lugibihl Brothers, Pandora, Ohio, breeder of the big type of Duroc Jersey hogs, was in Lima, bringing to this city one of these hogs, which was shipped to Lexington, Ky., and for which Mr. Lugibihl received $150.

The sale of their fine, big-class stock is set for Tuesday, Oct. 24, at the Lugibihl farm, five miles west of Bluffton, when 50 head of fall yearlings, spring gilts, show and herd hogs and spring animals will be disposed of.

The big type of spring animals, weighing from 200 to 275 pounds, will be shown special attraction. There will be two Orion Cherry King yearlings and two Cherry King yearling male hogs.

RAILROAD CAR FEELS WAY.

On the Pennsylvania railroad lines east of Pittsburgh and Erie there is a car which feels its way along with the aid of automatic templates. It is being run over every distance as quickly as possible in order to secure accurate measurements of the distances from the track to projecting portions of station buildings, tunnels, bridges and other objects.—Popular Science Monthly.

THE BLUSHING BRIDES.

"Why are brides generally expected to be blushing as they walk down the aisle?" "I suppose," replied Sufren Long, glancing cautiously about and lowering his voice, that a good many of them blush to think how they are going to subdue the lords of creation after they've safely got them." Judge.

SOCIALIST EDITOR ENDORSES WILSON

Max Eastman Tells Why
President Should be Re-elected.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—The Socialist vote, usually anchored by party ethics to its own candidate, is leaning strongly to President Wilson. A great many prominent socialists will either vote silently for the president or will renounce their party allegiance to do so.

Max Eastman, one of their most widely known leaders, editor of "The Masses," favors so strongly the reelection of President Wilson that today he gave the Woodrow Wilson Independent League the following statement:

"I would rather see Woodrow Wilson elected than Charles E. Hughes because Wilson aggressively believes not only in keeping out of war, but in organizing the nations of the world to prevent war. His official endorsement of preparedness for international federation in the interest of peace is the most important step that any president of the United States has taken towards civilizing the world since Lincoln.

"His announcement that the best judgment of mankind accepts the principle of the eight-hour day is another proof that he has vision and sympathy with human progress.

"Hughes has given no such proof. He has given proof to the contrary by his petty and indiscriminate receding."

Good Manners Help.

A merchant who returned from England just before the war broke out has been voluble ever since on the manners of the children he happened to meet abroad. Apparently American parents and schools do not lay on good manners the emphasis that they receive abroad. Yet good manners, like the gold at the foundation of all money, are current the world over. Emerson noted this: "Give a boy dress and accomplishments and you give him the mastery of palaces and fortunes wherever he goes. He has not the trouble to earn or earn them; they solicit him to enter and possess." "All your Greek," Chesterfield wrote to his son, "can never advance you from secretary to envoy, or from envoy to ambassador, but your address, your air, your manner, if good, may." "The difference between a well-bred and ill-bred man is this," Samuel Johnson said. "One immediately attracts your attention, the other your aversion. You love one until you find reason to hate him; you hate the other until you find reason to love him." Civility, polished manners, mean much to a youth in his first position.—Kansas City Star.

Billingsgate.

Billingsgate is noted for more than its picturesque language, for it is the world's greatest middleman's fish market. London devours over one and a half million pounds of fish every day in normal times—a quarter of a million tons a year that means. Eleven railroads bring about 550 tons a day and the remainder comes by water. Before being offered for sale, the fish at Billingsgate are inspected by a commission of the Worshipful Company of Fishmongers, which holds letters patent granted it by King Edward I at the beginning of the thirteenth century. The ancient society represents, through the North Sea Protective association, more than 50 of the leading fishing companies of the United Kingdom.

WISE OHIO MOTHERS STOP DOSING CHILDREN FOR COLDS

Instead of Internal Dosing, Which Injures Delicate Little Stomachs, They Are Now Using Plenty of Fresh Air in the Bedroom and a Hot Application of Vick's Vapo-Rub at the First Sign of Trouble.

Careful mothers everywhere have long realized that little children should be dosed as sparingly as possible. Still, colds and cold troubles must not be neglected. This problem has been solved by those Ohio mothers who have tried the Southern treatment—Vick's Vapo-Rub Salve.

CANTON, OHIO, Mrs. Traverse G. Connor, 911 Marion Avenue, writes: "In August, 1914, I visited my husband's parents in Kentucky, and his mother gave us our first jar of Vick's Vapo-Rub Salve. As we have five boys, ranging in age from nine months to seven years, we certainly have need of something for colds. Since that time we have never been without Vick's, and when any of our boys take cold now our first thought is to apply an application of Vick's to their chest, and have them inhale it, and also swallow a little, and their cold is soon broken up."

CINCINNATI, OHIO, Mrs. L. V. Mann, 1714 Breckster Avenue, writes: "I have used Vick's Vapo-Rub Salve four years, and find there is nothing better for sore throat, colds in the head or chest, and also headache. It is all you claim it to be and more."

Three sizes, 25c, 50c or $1.00.

Mrs. Franklin Adams, wife of the well-known writer, is here shown in the trenches in France with the police, who guided her and other American about. She

Author Of Child Labor Bill Gives Credit For Passage To President

(By Hon. Edward Keating of Colorado, Author, Federal Child Labor Law.)

The story of the passage of the so-called Keating-Owen Federal Child Labor Bill may be told in a sentence: Woodrow Wilson did it.

And he did it just like he has done so many other big things during the last four years—he frankly and publicly advised his democratic associates who control the legislative branch of our government to act on what the manifest will of their constituents and strike the shackles from the limbs of children in industry.

Wilson is a great democrat, but in addition to that he is a born leader of men. Like John Paul Jones he commands the ship because he is the most capable man aboard the ship. His crew has confidence in his judgment and patriotism. It isn't necessary for him to use the belaying pin. He gets results without adopting the tactics of distinguished predecessors who belabored their comrades in the hall of congress with a "Big Stick" or starved them into submission by depriving them of post office patronage.

Other presidents have emphasized the need of federal child labor legislation, some would-be presidents are proclaiming before high heaven that they love the children and yearn for an opportunity to lighten their burdens but Woodrow Wilson is the only president who ever coined his words in deeds on this subject.

His influence put the bill through the senate, his signature made it law, and to him belong the honor and the glory. God bless him!

It wasn't an easy fight. I introduced the bill on the opening day of the Sixty-third congress. A score of cooks had a finger in the pie. Owen Lovejoy and Dr. A. J. McKelway of the National Child Labor Committee had devoted the best years of their lives to the task of creating a public sentiment which would compel congress to deal with the problem in an effective way. Jane Adams, Felix Adler, former Congressman A. Mitchell Palmer of Pennsylvania and scores of other big-hearted men and women from every section of the country had contributed time and money and thought. Prof. W. S. Parkinson, of Columbia—who should be on the supreme bench—supervised the legal work and made a wonderful argument in support of the constitutionality of the bill.

We encountered the lobby at the beginning of the contest. It was well-organized, apparently generously financed, and absolutely tireless. It employed distinguished lawyers to raise constitutional objections, produced medical "experts" who insisted that boys of ten might be worked 12 hours a day in a cotton mill "without deleterious effect" and paraded an imposing array of business men who were sure they would be ruined if they were deprived of the services of their little serfs.

In the face of this opposition it required two months to force the bill through the house. We won on February 2, 1916, and the fight was transferred to the senate.

The lobby was not discouraged. Its leaders boasted that the bill would be pigeon-holed in the American house of lords, or falling that would be talked to death. With the assistance of such valiant champions as Senator Joe Robinson, of Arkansas and Senator J. W. Kern, of Indiana, we avoided the pigeon-hole and had the bill favorably reported to the senate.

But the calendars were crowded with important constructive legislation and members of congress were anxious to get away to their districts. To talk the bill to death seemed easy. The mere threat of a filibuster might be sufficient. The lobbyists rejoiced.

But they had not reckoned on Woodrow Wilson. Returning from a cruise down the Chesapeake he discovered the situation and acted with the decision and directness characteristic of him.

He went to the capitol, called the leading democratic senators about him and told them that in his judgment congress should not adjourn until the child labor bill was passed.

The story of his visit and its objection was carried to the country and the people from Maine to California lost no time in making it clear that they were back of the president.

The lobby stole away from Washington and the bill was passed. The bill provides that children shall not be employed in mines or quarries before they are 16 years old or in mills, workshops, canneries, etc., before they are 14 years old, and that children between 14 and 16 years shall not be employed in mills, workshops, canneries, etc., for more than eight hours a day or six days a week or at night. If any mine, quarry, or manufacturing establishment violates the law its products will be barred from the channels of interstate commerce. It is a very simple law but a very effective one. No one can misunderstand its provisions and under federal administration we are confident no one can evade them. I may say in passing that the friends of this bill are not in the least apprehensive concerning what the supreme court will do when this legislation comes before that tribunal. We hold that when the original 13 states adopted the constitution they granted congress absolute power to regulate commerce between the states, with foreign nations, and the Indian tribes. The only limitation on that power which you can find anywhere in the constitution is to be found in the fifth amendment, which declares that citizens shall not be deprived of life, liberty, or property without due process of law. The supreme court has repeatedly construed the commerce clause of the constitution and the limitations fixed by the fifth amendment. We contend that the court has uniformly held that congress may regulate interstate commerce in the interests of the public health, the public safety, the public morals, and the public welfare, and that the only limitation recognized by the court was that the exercise of such power by congress must be a reasonable one.

There is our case in a nutshell. We hold that child labor is immoral, that a moral taint attaches to the products of child labor; and that congress, in an effort to safeguard the public morals and the public welfare, may exclude this pestilential thing from the channels of interstate commerce.

Better Iron It.

The other morning little Helen was watching mother press one of her coats. Helen asked why this had to be done. Mother said to her: "The wrinkles out. Later mother was sitting on the porch with Helen in a large reed rocker. The impression of the reed on mother's arm wrinkled it a great deal. Helen seeing this exclaimed: 'Mamma, look at your arm! Don't you think you had better iron it?'"

A want ad in the Times-Democrat will bring quick results.

LABOR GAINS BY CLAYTON ANTI TRUST LAW; RADICAL ACT

Frees Workers From Operation of Old Time Injunction Orders.

Is Most Advanced Measure Ever Passed by Any Law Making Body.

The most important legislation in behalf of the workers enacted by any American congress is the Clayton Anti-Trust law. Human labor has been lifted from the category of commodities and the workingman has secured the right of voluntary association for his protection and welfare. The rights of the workers have been protected against the unwarranted issuance of writs of injunction wherever the federal courts have jurisdiction, and he has been guaranteed the right of trial by jury in cases of alleged contempt committed outside of court.

Section six declares that "the labor of human being is not a commodity or article of commerce." Labor produces commodities but is not a commodity itself. It cannot be a commodity under any other condition but that of slavery or serfdom. If it is not a commodity then it cannot become an article of commerce. For the same reason a restraining order or writ of injunction cannot properly be issued against it. With the legislative statement that labor is not a commodity or article of commerce, the basis for the issuance of an injunction in a labor dispute is immediately removed. A restraining order or writ of injunction may issue whenever necessary for the protection of property or property rights from irreparable injury where there is no other adequate remedy at law. The Clayton act declares that labor is not a commodity and, therefore, interference with it cannot be restrained or enjoined by an equity court. Such interference must be dealt with by the law courts, where it properly belongs.

Section twenty declares that it is no longer a violation of any Federal law—

First: To terminate any relation of employment.

Second: To cease to perform any work or labor.

Third: To recommend, advise, or persuade others by peaceful means to terminate or cease to perform labor.

Fourth: To attend any place where the person or persons so attending may lawfully be, for the purpose of obtaining or communicating information.

Fifth: To peacefully persuade any person to work or to abstain from working.

Sixth: To withhold patronage, either singly or in concert, from any party to a dispute concerning terms or conditions of employment, or to recommend, advise or persuade others, by peaceful and lawful means, to withhold patronage.

Seventh: To pay or give to, or withhold from any person engaged in such dispute, any strike benefits, money, or other things of value.

Eighth: To peacefully assemble, in a lawful manner, and for lawful purposes.

Ninth: To do any act or thing which might lawfully be done in the absence of a dispute concerning terms or conditions of employment.

Nor shall a restraining order or writ of injunction be issued by any federal court forbidding the doing of any of these things.

William D. Wilson, secretary of the Department of Labor, says:

"A law enacted for the purpose of preventing monopolies or combinations in restraint of trade should not be expected to apply to those who have neither trade nor commerce to restrain. The wage-workers are in that position, and the restraint of trade features of the Clayton act do not apply to them. As wage-workers, they have no interstate or foreign commerce. They lend themselves, or refuse to lend themselves, toward the production and transportation of the articles of commerce owned and controlled by others. They produce and transport the commodities that constitute commerce, but they are neither the commerce nor the commodity itself.

"The combinations known as trade unions that he enters into are not for the purpose of creating a monopoly in trade or to restrain commerce, but for the purpose of securing the best terms possible for the loan of himself and his labor power, which is a part of him, to those who are engaged in trade and commerce and desire his services.

"The question of whether or not persons engaged in labor should be permitted to combine is an entirely different question than whether persons or corporations engaged in commerce should be permitted to combine. Capital has always been permitted to combine. Neither the Sherman Anti-trust law nor the Clayton law prevent the combination of capital. They only prevent certain methods of combination having certain results which are considered injurious to the general welfare. Every co-partnership and every corporation is a combination of capital. Capital has been encouraged to organize not only to bring large amounts of it together, but to utilize its combined efforts in such manner as to get the very best results. That has not been the case with labor. It is only in recent years that labor unions have been considered legal if they under-

FIFTH ANNUAL BUCKEYE TOUR TO WASHINGTON OF THE CORN BOYS AND GIRLS OF OHIO

DECEMBER 4TH TO 9TH, 1916

CONDUCTED BY THE

STATE BOARD OF AGRICULTURE

EVERYBODY INVITED TO GO ALONG

THE Corn Growing Contest closes November 10th. The Domestic Science Contests may be conducted any time in any community, up to November 10th.

A grange, church, school, club or any other organization may get the girls to enter; fix a date and make a community affair out of it. Raise the money by subscription or by an entertainment. We will help you. We will furnish blanks and rules for the contest.

We have four times as many trips pledged for the boys and girls already as we had last year, but we want another girl from each county; some one to take the lead and put on a Domestic Science Contest. Write us for all particulars.

The 1916 tour takes us to Pittsburgh; battlefields of Maryland and Virginia; Washington; a visit to Congress just opening its session; a reception by President Wilson; New York and other great cities of the East. The Allegheny Mountains and Blue Ridge Mountains in all their grandeur; Horseshoe Bend and Sand Patch Tunnel; Mt. Vernon, Arlington and Washington's Monument; Grant's Tomb, Ellis Island, the Statue of Liberty and the frowning forts that guard New York; then our evening banquet in the great ball room of the Astor House; the Hippodrome, Pullman palace cars, and then Home, Sweet Home.

We will see the greatest cities in America; we will be on a trip with the best people from Ohio. This is the biggest tour that has ever been conducted. We go December 4th. ARE YOU GOING?

took to utilize their energies to secure the best results obtainable for them. The struggle has been one of centuries, and the biggest single step that has been taken since serfdom and slavery were abolished is the enactment of the Clayton law.

To Remove Linen Stains.

Chocolate or cocoa stains can be removed from linen by rubbing the spot with a piece of butter. Let it stand awhile, over night if possible. Then wash out with warm, soapy water. Mildew stains can be removed by the following bleaching fluid: Dilute one part of Javelle water with four parts of water. Moisten the mildewed spots with the liquid, and as soon as the stain disappears rinse immediately in clear water, as the bleach is harmful to the material if allowed to remain too long. This same bleach is also to be recommended in removing tea, coffee, wine and fruit stains.

LIMA MEN FIGURLE IN B. & L. LEAGUE

The Ohio Building and Loan association league, which held its annual meeting last year in Lima, closed last night the annual session at Akron. The program was devoted to matters of interest to building and loan companies.

Myron T. Herrick, candidate for senator from Ohio, spoke on "Rural Credits" before the association yesterday morning. Herrick, in his speech, dwelt more upon politics than the subject to which he was assigned.

Delegates attending were: From Lima Home and Savings Association, Charles F. Sprague, C. H. Corey, J. Morris, R. W. Parmenter and Howard Pears; from Central Building and Loan, C. A. Graham and W. L. Rogers; from Allen County Savings and Loan, C. E. Lynch, Charles F. Stolzenbach and John W. Roby; from South Side Building and Loan Association, James W. Gensel, B. H. Holmes and Ralph P. Mackenzie. Delegates returned today.

The Real Treasure.

Poor, indeed, is he who has no friends. Love is an exclusive sentiment and sometimes an exciting one. It is through our friends that much of our happiness comes. A true friend is to be appreciated and treasured. Friendship's bond is one not to be lightly broken. To have friends, we must be friends. The real friend does not easily take offense. Openness brings friends closer together in thought and feeling. There must be confidence and it must never be betrayed. "To suspect a friend is worse than to be deceived by him," said La Rochefoucauld. If, when offense is given, one does not give way to impatience, but gives ample opportunity for explanation or excuse, it will often be found that there was no real grievance. Have forgiveness ready in the heart—a complete forgiveness which puts anger so far away that it is soon forgotten. No human being is perfect and forgiveness enables the character. If you have one true friend, be grateful and kind and hold him to you with hoops of steel. Cultivate friendships by being kind, helpful and considerate. And remember: "Friendship is a plant that must frequently be watered."—Milwaukee Journal.

In the Rubber Fields.

While the most approved methods of reducing the milk to rubber in South America is by coagulation in smoke, natives of Africa frequently resort to the practice of covering their bodies with the fluid as it is taken from the tree and after there has been sufficient evaporation the rubber residue is scraped off and molded into cubes. In the Fiji Islands the rubber workers use their mouths as "retorts" or "coagulators"; the rubber pellets as they form being taken in the lips and molded into balls.

PACIFIC COAST TO SHOW A LANDSLIDE FOR THE PRESIDENT

Progressives Are Alienated
From G. O. P. by Tactless Standpatters.

Francis Heney Predicts Sweep for Wilson in the Golden State.

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—Telegrams from Judge Albert D. Norton, progressive leader of Missouri, who is touring the west for Wilson, say that the Pacific coast states will turn up a landslide for President Wilson, are borne out by a letter written to Alvin T. Hart, western manager of the republican campaign by L. Roy Slater, former chairman of the progressive committee of Washington.

Mr. Slater, in his letter, says that Wilson will carry his state and that Hughes went through the west "in the hands of the most offensive standpatters" and "if there was any need to accentuate the breach between the two factions, the Hughes trip added the finishing touch."

The letter is in answer to one sent from republican headquarters here, follows:

"September 19, 1916.
"Hon Alvin T. Hart,
Western Headquarters,
Chicago, Ill.

"My Dear Sir:
"I am today in receipt of a letter from some one in your office, whose name I cannot decipher, but who signs himself 'assistant to Mr. Garfield.' They open the letter by saying that 'I suppose you, like most of the progressives, are ready to work for Mr. Hughes.'

"I intend to support Mr. Hughes but the assumption that most of us are going to support him is, as far as this state is concerned, without any foundation. The situation in this state has been handled very badly, and something must be done to bring Mr. Hughes' candidacy to life. It is my judgment that if the election was held tomorrow, Mr. Wilson 'could carry the state overwhelmingly. If the election had been held three months ago, no doubt, Mr. Hughes would have carried it."

"The standpatters, following the nomination of Mr. Hughes, went on the assumption that there was no other place to go but to the republican party and conducted themselves accordingly, with the result that with very few exceptions, the men who were prominent as progressives in this state (and we were the dominant party) are out openly advocating Wilson." If there was any need to accentuate the breach between the two factions, the Hughes trip added the finishing touch."

"He was sent through this state in charge of the most offensive standpatters, and ignored completely the progressives on whom he must depend for his election. For instance, in this county the progressives polled 16,000 votes four years ago while Taft received 4,000."

"I want you to distinctly understand that there is no personal feeling in this letter. It happens that I am particularly intimate in a social and business way with the men who are at the head of the republican organization in this county, and they have been more than active in their attempts to get me to take some part with them. But they have made a series of blunders that I do not believe can be remedied in six weeks."

"You can quite understand the situation here when I tell you that the progressives nominated Miles Pounder for senator, Henry McBride for governor, two congressmen and the state treasurer, and the republican organization vigorously opposed all of these candidates."

"Today, the republicans have the organization but very few candidates, and they are unwilling to divide up the organization with the men who are in control of the votes. From a selfish standpoint this may be well but it is not good politics."

"There ought to be some man sent out from headquarters who has good horse sense, who can come to the leading cities and talk over the situation and get the men together. There is no use sending out a selling plaster to take this job. If you have a good man in the organization who is known outside of his own county you ought to send him here."

"We also want some money, and we must have some from some source if we expect to offset the Wilson propaganda. He has certainly taken hold of our voters."

"Very truly yours,
(signed) "L. ROY SLATER,
"Former chairman of the Progressive State Central Committee, Washington."

If further proof of the conditions in the west are needed, Francis J. Heney, of California, arrived at western headquarters of the Democratic National committee, with the word that California was sure to be in the Wilson column."

"I never saw," said Mr. Heney, "such a sweep to Wilson as followed the visit of Mr. Justice Hughes to our state. When Mr. Fairbanks spoke in Los Angeles it was positively pathetic, the reception accorded him. The independent vote in California is the most independent in the United States, as it knows no party line, and this year it is for Woodrow Wilson."

A Suffrage Grandmother Going to Convention.

Mrs. O. McFarland, president of the Smith County Suffrage League of Texas, was one of the principal exhibits at the Atlanta City convention of the National American Woman Suffrage Association. Mrs. McFarland is the youngest grandmother in the organization.

She is the grandmother of husky twins, and she and other suffragists think this is pretty good evidence that belief in woman suffrage does not incline women toward spinsterhood.

LIMA HOSPITAL IS BIG HIT SCORED READY FOR FULLEST PROBE BY DEMPSTER AT THE ORPHEUM

"The authorities of the Lima Hospital society are perfectly willing to have the city investigate the conditions at that institution," according to Attorney S. S. Wheeler, president of the board of trustees, in regard to the announcement of Councilman Dempster that he would demand a probe into the affairs of the hospital.

"We will welcome such an investigation and try to be of all possible assistance," Mr. Wheeler continued. "We have nothing to conceal."

"I have nothing to say at present," said Miss Catherine Mapes, in charge at the institution.

The statement of Dempster and others, including Mayor Bailis H. Simpson, that the administration of the hospital was at fault in regard to the free and "pay" patients, as well as in the matter of the care with which patients are treated, indicates that the council and the solicitor may institute an investigation at the regular meeting Monday night. The announcement, however, is received by President Wheeler with an invitation to investigate, as the trustees are not averse, but willing, to aid in every possible manner. The other trustees of the Lima hospital society are Edward Christen, F. E. Baxter, E. R. Curtin, Henry Delsel, Thomas Duffield, F. G. Stuebel, T. K. Jacobs, C. H. Cory, John L. Galvin, Jacob Piper, R. O. Bigley, J. R. Rickoff, W. B. Richie and E. J. Maure. Cory is vice president and Mayor Simpson, secretary and treasurer.

SPRINGFIELD MAN KILLED.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Oct. 13.—Harry Cohn, of this city, was killed at North Baltimore, Ohio, when his automobile turned over and crushed his skull. His brother John, who was with him, escaped with slight injuries.

BOY KILLED BY CAR.

TOLEDO, Oct. 13.—Joseph Pawelzak, Jr., 9 years old, was killed when hit by an automobile driven by Miss Lorena Bartley, society girl, daughter of a wholesale grocer.

THREATENED WITH DEATH.

Alliance, O., Oct. 13.—Hugh Cooper found a black hand letter on his porch which read "Be down at the river Saturday night at 7. You come, if not, death. If not, a hole in you." The police are investigating. A big black finger mark is the only signature.

Ancient American Art.

Thus far Bolivia is the only locality of the new world whence tin in large commercial quantities is exported, remarks the St. Paul Pioneer Press. The deposits are large, and the use of tin as an alloy appears to be as old as the people. At any rate, before the coming of the Spanish conquistadores the natives of Peru and Bolivia, in the vicinity of Lake Titicaca, made use of tin as an alloy with copper to make bronze.

PRESIDENT'S DEFEAT WOULD BE BLOW TO TRUE AMERICANISM

By Cyrus Townsend Brady.

1. Venture to submit certain reasons why true Americanism requires the re-election of President Wilson.

1. The defeat of the president would indicate to the Germans and their friends a repudiation of the policies for which he has contended, which are, chiefly, (a) the right of this country to sell arms and munitions to any purchaser, and (b) the right of Americans to travel on neutral ships without being subject to underwater assassination.

2. The defeat of the president would give unbounded joy to every traitorous and disloyal hyphenate in the country. To show the estimate these place upon Hughes' feeble protestations it is only necessary to point out that these hyphenates, who undoubtedly reflect the prevalent opinion in Germany and in some sections of Ireland, are supporting Hughes even though his principal advocate is Theodore Roosevelt, who includes the hyphenate first in his bitter denunciations of everything except Roosevelt. These hyphenates argue that no matter what Roosevelt says or does Hughes is a safe man to vote for from their point of view. Why?

3. The defeat of the president would be a triumph for the man who to gratify his personal dislike for one president (Taft) called a great party into being, and to gratify his personal dislike for another president (Wilson) did his best to destroy that party. In both instances the progressive party was made to revolve about Roosevelt and Roosevelt alone. Thus does the apostle of the square deal, and the indomitable ego, live up to his disinterested preaching.

4. The defeat of the president would mean the substitution of different methods for the solving of question which with patient care and wise determination have been, or are being, brought to a satisfactory settlement by diplomacy. There is but one other method of settlement—war. Do we want that?

5. The defeat of the president would put into office a man who, as a lawyer, has followed this time-worn maxim "When you have no case resort to abuse." Neither Hughes nor Roosevelt nor any of the republicans have said what they would have done or what they will do. Glittering generalities in which they deal mean nothing. They can only negotiate or fight. This country should not resort to fighting until everything else in reason has been tried. What would the republicans have tried before fighting? What will they try?

It is easy for a man to say what he would have done after the crisis is over. He has had the benefit of the success or failure of the other man then. It is easy for Mr. Roosevelt to declare, two years after, what the country should have done when Belgium was invaded, but his present declaration here widely differs from his contemporary deliberance upon the subject. Why?

Shall we give aid and comfort to the disloyal hyphenate, to the Germans and their associates? Substituting a man who does not put forth a single constructive idea for one who has done more to uphold American honor and dignity, to protect American citizens, to promote the welfare and prosperity of the country, and to cause it to stand high in the opinion of all the world, than any president since Lincoln's day, not even excepting that megalomaniac party wrecker and recreant?

There are many reasons which every one knows connected with the internal administration of our affairs which might be added to these, why Americans should vote for Wilson. But the republicans have not the magnanimity to refer to these. Their campaign is one of personal abuse and detraction—"the knocking birds."

The president is not perfect. He would be quick to repudiate any contention to that end. He has made mistakes, and a part of his greatness is his willingness to acknowledge them but on the whole he is the biggest American—and more!

than that—one of the biggest men in the world in generations. He stands for America first, but also and equally bravely and nobly for all mankind.

How Cataract is Contracted.

Mothers are sometimes so thoughtless as to neglect the colds which their children contract. The inflammation of the mucus membrane, at first acute, becomes chronic and the child has chronic cataract, a disease that is seldom cured and that may prove a life's burden. Many persons who have this loathsome disease will remember having had frequent colds at the time it was contracted. A little forethought, a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy judiciously used, and all this trouble might have been avoided. Obtainable everywhere. m-w-e-fri

Treatment of Bolls.

A French doctor has had great success with scattering bolls by applying at the first signs of inflammation compresses wet with equal parts of tincture of aralia, tincture of iodine and spirits of camphor. Continue until the trouble seems to be passed. If with the compresses one drinks sulphur water or red clover blossom tea, it will help to scatter the bolls and overcome the tendency.

Both women are remarkable personalities and speak from their own experiences. The meeting is open to all women. Plans for the state woman's suffrage convention at Lima, Oct. 15 and 16 will be discussed.

BANDIT WARFARE IS AT STANDSTILL ABOUT CHIHUAHUA

UNITED STATES FIELD HEADQUARTERS IN MEXICO, Oct. 12.—Bandit activity west of Chihuahua City has come to a standstill, according to information received at headquarters. A recent rumor that the town of Madera in Chihuahua had been occupied by Villistas is now known to be incorrect. The marauders have penetrated no farther north than Tencosachic on the Mexican Northwestern railway about fifty miles south of Madera. Reliable advices reaching here say that rumors that bandit bands were working toward Galena, between the Mexican Central railway and the American lines have been disproved although positive information is not yet available. It is thought here that Villa and the main group of his bandits are still in the vicinity of Guerrero. Belief is strong that Villa will not dare to approach within striking distance of the Americans despite his boasts. A chance to smash the bandit gang would be welcomed to the whole American command.

APPEAL CASES DECIDED.

The court of appeals have handed down their decision in two cases pending, finding no error in the judgment of the court of common pleas and affirming the decision of the lower court. The case of Margaret E. Lansdowne against Jennie Cleverger, as administratrix of the estate of Josiah Williams, deceased, with the will attached, was the one case, in which the plaintiff sued for $300 for care of Williams during his life. Mrs. Cleverger took the case to the higher court, which ruled against her.

The decision of F. S. Switzer against the village of Spencerville, was affirmed. Switzer sued for damages in the sum of $125. The jury gave him $87.50. The court of appeals sustained the judgment.

DYSPEPSIA OF WOMEN

Special Treatment Required.

Many women suffer from a form of indigestion or dyspepsia which does not yield to ordinary treatment. While the symptoms are similar to those of ordinary indigestion, yet the medicines usually prescribed do not restore the patient's normal condition.

There seems to be a kind of dyspepsia caused by derangement of the female organism. While this appears to be the same as ordinary indigestion it can be relieved only by a medicine which, besides acting as a stomach tonic, is good for female ailments. Read what such a medicine did for Mrs. Williams—

She says: "Before I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was troubled with dyspepsia and bearing down pains in my back and sides, and after my meals my stomach would bloat up till I could scarcely get my breath. At times I was so weak I could hardly stand on my feet and I looked hollow-eyed and my skin was yellow. Now I have a good color, have gained in every way and can do my work without any pains. I think it is the best medicine on earth for stomach troubles of women."—Mrs. NEILLIE WILLIAMS, 31 West 3d Street, New Albany, Ind.

BASE-BALL POOL STUBS MAY END IN MANY ARRESTS

Harry Nabors, 35, former salesman for the Barrett Roofing company, who claims to live in Caltago, received a preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner Adler this morning, at Cincinnati, on a charge of sending lottery tickets in interstate commerce by mail or express. He was arrested in that city last Tuesday.

It is alleged that packages addressed to Nabors and mailed from Lima, Dayton, Newark and other Ohio cities will result in wholesale arrests of agents said to have been representatives of Nabors in their respective cities. It is claimed that Nabors visited this city and appointed a representative, who sold pools during the world's series just closed. When Nabors attempted to engage Morgan Grifwold, postoffice inspector, to take the agency for Cincinnati, he was promptly arrested.

BERT MORGAN SOON JOINS BROTHERS IN THE LAND BEYOND

The body of Bert Morgan, 50, painter, who fell from a railing in the rear of the third floor of the Commercial building on South Main street, yesterday afternoon, is at the Whitely mortuary. No funeral arrangements have been made. A brother, L. O. Morgan, was killed in an automobile accident at Los Angeles, Calif., on Monday, according to information received here, by relatives.

As many as four times the Whitely ambulance has previously hauled Morgan to the hospital. In an accident sustained near the place of that of yesterday, he was considerably bruised and cut up. The Whitely ambulance yesterday started with him to the hospital for the last time. His skull was fractured, causing death.

It is believed he started down the long porch toward the hall when he fell over the railing. He resided in the Commercial building. Coroner Curtiss, who was called, attributes his death to accidental causes. At first, the suicide theory was advanced by the crowd which gathered at the scene.

BENEIDA HAMILTON DIES AT HOSPITAL

Beneida Hamilton, 15-year-old daughter of John Hamilton, died at the City hospital last evening at 6:30 o'clock, after an illness of two weeks from pneumonia. The child, who has been an inmate of the Allen county children's home, was removed to the hospital on October 7.

Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Lydia Bryan of Hazel avenue. Interment will be at Woodlawn.

MARSHAL STABBED WHILE ON DUTY

AKRON, Oct. 12.—Arthur Doubledoe, 31, deputy marshal of Kenmore south of here, was stabbed to death last night as he and Deputy Montz were arresting two escaped prisoners.

Joe Huttman, one of the two, was recaptured early this morning and bound over to the grand jury on a first degree murder charge.

Huttman and Joe Alaska, arrested some time ago, for operating an automobile while drunk, set fire to the building and broke jail at Kenmore a week ago. Doubledoe and Montz discovered their whereabouts last night and arrested them. The men made no resistance but while they were walking to a street car Huttman swung a knife with his free arm, stabbing the officer to the heart. Doubledoe died on the way to the hospital.

PITTSBURGH FACES BIG MILK FAMINE

WARREN, O., Oct. 12.—Unless immediate action is taken by milk producers or Pittsburgh dealers, Pittsburgh consumers will be milkless Sunday morning. The Dairyman's Protective Association, which embraces Columbiana, Trumbull, Mahoning and Ashtabula counties in Ohio and several western Pennsylvania counties, met at Jefferson, O., today and decided to reject the offer of Pittsburgh dealers of $2.00 per 100 pounds of milk for one month. The producers ask $2.10 for six months.

If a settlement is not reached by tomorrow night the farmers declare they will make their milk into butter and feed the skimmed product to stock rather than to ship it to Pittsburgh for distribution.

Orto Abbott, employed by the Andrews Asphalt company at Wayne and Jackson street, had an artery in his wrist severed this morning, while at his work, in the mixing of chemicals. He was removed to the city hospital in the Whitely ambulance. Abbott resides at 242 West Elm street.

"WISHING RING" IS PRETTILY STAGED

One of the prettiest and artistic amateur performances ever given in Lima was staged last night at the Faurot opera house under the auspices of the Child Welfare association, in "The Wishing Ring" which will be given again tonight and is well worth attending.

The plot centers around two children "Allan" and "Jean" who, provoked because they weren't asked to their mother's party, wish themselves in Story Book Land, and fall asleep, dreaming they have arrived at the land of their wish. What follows in their meeting with the different characters of their story book friends. After different and hazardous adventures in the strange realm of the King and Queen of Hearts, they find their mother shaking them back to the land of reality and some party ice cream. And after all, they are glad it was all a dream, their wanderings in Story Book Land, and they are just as fond as ever of their mother who thoughtlessly forgot to ask them to the party.

Miss Helen Pence and Miss Lillian Deall are the two children and should be highly complimented on their excellent work.

Beautiful dancing, good singing, supported by well trained choruses, and clever comedy go to make up a production of unusual merit.

Miss Marguerite Zender as "Moon Beam", the dream fairy, sang and danced in her usual finished way. Elizabeth Moulton in a butterfly dance was as graceful and delightful as the butterfly she portrayed. The dainty dances of the little children deserved the highest praise, and were well received by the audience.

Miss Kathryn Wyre as "Mistress Mary" and Clayton Pfeiffer as "Tom" her lover were very good, giving a finished performance. Clarence Crites was entirely at home in the role of "Knave of Hearts" and gave his characteristic good acting. Miss Marie Nagle as "Bo Peep", and Miss Margaret O'Connell as "Mother Goose" were among the Story Book people.

Clever comedy was given by Miss Bonnie Linn as "Marjorie Daw", Mark Rudy as "Simple Simon", Mr. and Mrs. Jack Spratt by Otto Rose and Ernest Baird, and Mrs. Frank Bell as "Mrs. Pumpkin Eater", the suffragist.

Miss Marian Sullivan, made an excellent, haughty "Queen", who, however, melted visibly to the susceptible flattery of the children and courted her home-made tarts. Lockwood Williams played the "King's Messenger" with the traditional dignity, a la burlesque. Julius Callahan as "King Cole" always had a hearty laugh and James Enck and the "Piemen", was good. The "Piddlers Three", Jack Cullon, Virgil Verbyrke and Harold Hawisher, furnished the music for the king. But he always held onto his ears, so missed it.

Credit for this successful play belongs not only to those who participated in its staging but to the able direction of Mr. and Mrs. Harrington Adams, Mrs. C. S. Baxter, Mrs. Josephine Sherwood and Mrs. John Roby.

The Political Equality club, seemingly in honor of Mrs. Pumpkin Eater, reserved a box at the performance last evening and it remains to be seen what honors the suffragist will meet with at the performance tonight.

WOMAN ON TRIAL.

Gertrude Welker, arrested last week on a charge of selling intoxicating liquors without a license will be tried in Justice Hamilton's court this afternoon.

The evidence is said to have been obtained by H. B. Thomas and George White, state liquor license inspectors, who claim that they purchased beer from the Welker woman at her home on North Union street, a stone's throw from police headquarters.

SCHOOL PROBLEM IS TO EDUCATE THE UNUSUAL STUDENT

Kansas City Looks After Pupils Other Than the Average One.

Standardized Public Schools
Not the Most Effective in Training.

by Frederic J. Haskin.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 29.—

Every now and then somebody writes a book on "Great Men Who Never Went to School." There are plenty of such great ones, and an important sub-division of the family are the great men who couldn't go to school, not on account of lack of means, but because they couldn't get along with the school system. A volume even more interesting than any of the published ones might be written by some omniscient commentator, on the men who might have been great if they had been able to go to school.

The chief strength and the chief weakness of our public schools lie in the same point—their standardization. They are schools for the average child, finely figured down to meet the needs of the average child, and that makes it possible for them to give the average child the best free education he ever got in the world's history. That is their strength. When they come up against the unusual child they show their weakness. The unusual child doesn't fit into the scheme of things, and he remains as a friction point, causing loss of energy and heat on the part of teacher and parent until he and the system often part company on terms of hostility.

Here in Kansas City they have just opened a new public school that is dedicated especially to the cause of the unusual boy. It takes boys who can't get along with the ordinary public school system. It doesn't make any difference if they are young geniuses or only unusually obstreperous. Their trouble may be anything from budding artistic temperament to congenial dislike of authority. If they fail to fit into the scheme of things as drawn up for the usual child, they can come to the new Broadway school, and they will get a schooling if it is humanly possible to give them one, and probably enjoy the process. The new school is an interesting exhibit.

Miss Henrietta Campbell, who is the moving spirit in the new departure and an enthusiast in the cause, has a long record of service in the schools of Kansas City, and it was largely on the strength of that record that her ideas were hearkened to and blossomed forth in concrete form. She is a specialist on the problem of the unusual child. She is troubled by the boy who leaves school in the middle of his grammar course just when he ought to be getting interested. She was one of those chiefly instrumental in starting the local manual training and trade school, in an attempt to hold that boy; but the trade school flourished so exceedingly that it wandered away from its original purpose. It has grown into a big department of the public schools now, where the boys who want to learn trades instead of going to college building two-story brick houses as part of their course; and the unusual child is about where he was before.

So Miss Campbell went before the school board, and seeing what she had done they gave her the new school to carry out her ideas. In this school an attempt will be made to hold and educate the boys who would otherwise drop out of public school on what the divorce courts call grounds of mutual incompatibility. The school is an integral part of the public school system. No one is compelled to attend it, if he or his parents prefer to have him attend the local ward school. Any boy who can't get along elsewhere is welcome.

Outwardly, the school resembles almost anything rather than the public institution of learning we attended in our youth. The founders were particularly desirous of getting a good environment. Some of them had seen the success of kindred experiments jeopardized by putting the school in the wrong place. So they invaded one of the exclusive residence districts, where the streets are quiet and overarched with big trees, and the houses stand back from the pavement and regard the world askance. They found one of those big brick houses with white pillared porches that the west seems to have evolved as a residence type. It had started life as a residence, and subsequently had been turned into a church. Now it is a school, though there is still a pipe-organ in the gymnasium.

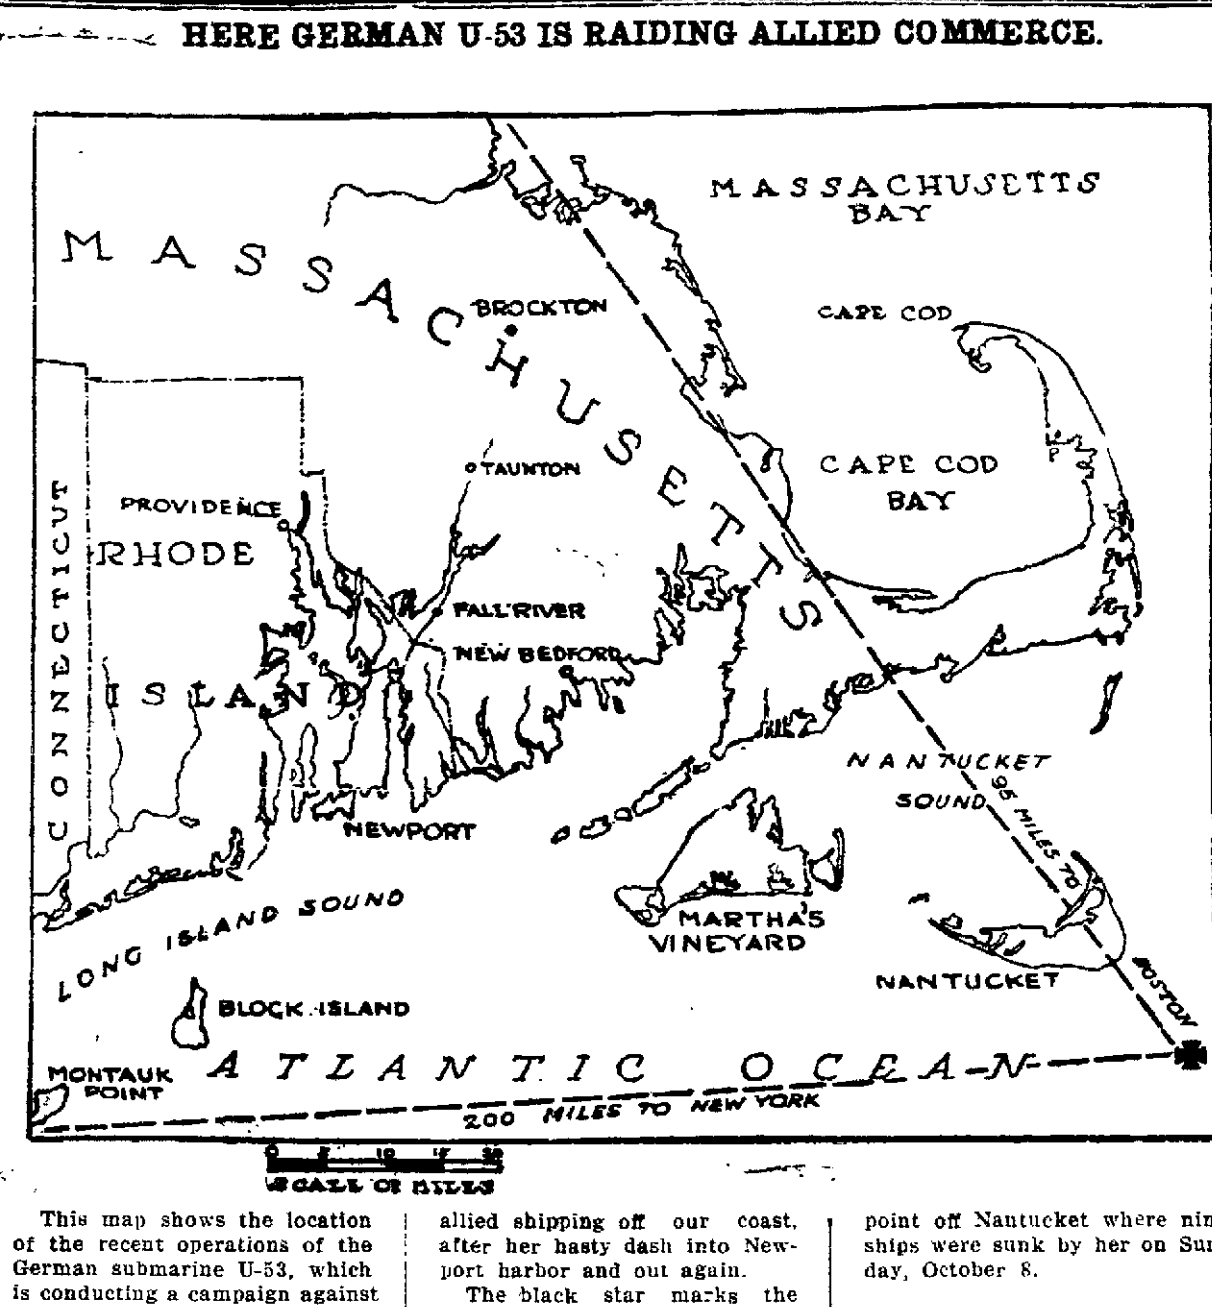

Naturally the neighborhood at first regarded the new school a little doubtfully. It was known to have been started for boys who didn't get along elsewhere, and its presence appeared somewhat in the light of an invasion. But the boys were carefully posted on this state of affairs and asked to vindicate the fair name of their new Alma Mater. Mischief would lead to complaints, and complaints might lead to removal. As a result of this appeal to reason, the conduct of the new school as a body has so far been worthy of a young ladies' seminary. After the neighborhood had watched for a week, an emissary came in the shape of an old gentleman who lived next door. He admitted the initial suspicions of nearby residents, but now, he said, "We are convinced that you will be a success. If you need any help, call on us."

So much for what the stimulation of school spirit among the boys may do. The first step they take here is to try to make the boys like the school, and to take pride in it. The attendance is still small enough to make a clan spirit possible. All the boys who attend have picked out the school in preference to the regular one on their own initiative, or on that of their parents. There are about 30 of them so far, and practically every one of them is a boy who would have sooner or later dropped out of the public schools because he couldn't get along in them.

Here they study the individual. They do what it is impossible to do in a big machine such as the ordinary public school has to be. This is a special school for special cases. There are boys of all types represented. The usually bright boy is just as hard for the big school to handle as the usually stupid or the usually mischievous boy. Miss Campbell tells of one boy that she taught a good many years ago, who has since become one of the leading professional men in a neighboring big city. That boy was continually in trouble, much of it serious. He was even up before the court. His trouble was that he was too bright. He could finish his lessons in half the time allotted, and spend the other half doing things better left undone. He could play truant two or three days running, and still keep up with the class, and he knew it. He probably had a certain contempt for the school program, and those who had to labor over it. As a result his school days were one continual turmoil.

In the Broadway school they will keep a boy busy if he has the brain of a Webster. They study each case and give it as much to do as necessary. The school is not divided into grades, but into groups. That gives a loop-hole and a renewed self-respect to the boy who is low for his age and size, and who often quits because he is ashamed to be classed with the little boys. It also gives a chance for the boy whose abilities are scattering—not a rare type, and often one of unusual ability along certain lines.

The big public school takes a cross-section of a dozen subjects and offers it as a year's work. Such a cross-section contains a part of each subject that is as difficult in its way as the parts of all the other subjects. The boy who can master one can master all. That is the theory, and it works with the average child.

This map shows the location of the recent operations of the German submarine U-53, which is conducting a campaign against allied shipping off our coast, after her hasty dash into Newport harbor and out again. The black star marks the point off Nantucket where nine ships were sunk by her on Sunday, October 8.

It doesn't work in certain cases. They have boys in the Broadway school who can't spell. They may never learn to spell. That weakness held them down in grade, kept them from promotion. They couldn't "pass" in spelling. Yet one of them is a fine arithmetician, a branch calling for a higher type of brain than spelling he may grow up unable to spell words of six letters, but that is really no reason for holding him back in other branches. If he has capacity he can get somebody to do his spelling for him for $18 a week.

To give any comprehensive idea of the various types that a school like the Broadway will naturally get, in any big city, would mean giving a sketch of every one of the 30 boys, and then the next 30 that arrive may be different. They probably will be. That is what is the matter with these boys, or what they are blessed with. They are different. The theory of the school consists in individual attention and continual supervision. Each boy will get the work he needs, even if that means a combination of first-grade arithmetic with seventh grade geography. The supervision is a tribute to the fact that not all of them are here on account of unusual mentality. Some of them have been unable to get along on account of a genius for getting into trouble. The motto of the school is "A chance for every boy," and the record of the newcomer is not even investigated. He gets a chance to make a new one.

As an experiment, the school is interesting and significant. It is a public school doing what many private schools do, but it combines the advantages of both systems. The public school may tend too much toward the machine occasionally, but there is a fine discipline for anybody in being part of a machine. There is a certain impersonality and ruthlessness about the laws of a big public school system that give the child a foretaste of the laws of the world. Even for the out-of-the-ordinary boy whose parents can afford to send him to a private school, such a school as the Broadway would seem to be a good thing. And when the family can't afford a private school—well, the state owes an education to the unusual individual just as much as to the average.

R. R. SHOWS BURN WITH $200,000 LOSS
PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 13.—Fire early this morning completely destroyed the pattern shop and coach-erecting departments of the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad company at McKees Rocks, causing damage estimated at $200,000. The explosion of a 200 gallon tank of benzine endangered the lives of the firemen fighting the flames and threw burning embers on a dozen houses nearby. Many families were forced to flee from their homes but the firemen succeeded in saving all adjoining property.

Good Reason.
A woman from the city was spending the summer in a small town, and one day, while doing her marketing, she asked the butcher how he happened to choose his business. He hesitated a moment, and then: "Well, I don't know," he answered, "but I always was fond of animals."

Easy to Tell the Age.
You can usually tell approximately the age of the farmer boy by what he or she has in the pocket. If he's under twenty-one, he'll have a key; if he's between twenty-one and thirty, he'll have a lemon; if he's over thirty, he won't be there.

Blessing of Work.
Work is a guardian angel. Work turns the child into a man. Work does sometimes what a man cannot do; roots a man firmly in his place in the world and gives him the blessed sensation: This plot of ground in the wide immensity of earth was meant for me to grow in.—Robert Hichens.

THIRTEEN HOODOO HITS CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND, Oct. 13.—Forebodings of ill luck hung on the clouds over Cleveland today. Some Clevelanders take the Friday the 13th hoodoo seriously because "Cleveland, Ohio" has 13 letters. The optimist and pessimist each takes a fling at conditions prevailing today to prove that his theory is right.

The pessimist points to the fact that work in Cleveland's hoodoo tunnel was suspended today because of the rush of gas into the excavation, which brought death to 19 sand hogs in July, while the optimist says the rushing gas comes as a warning and it happened this way in July there would have been no catastrophe.

Thirteen automobilists faced charges in police court today for disobeying traffic laws. One of them ran down a man yesterday and injured him so badly that he will not live through today. The victim is unidentified and has not regained consciousness.

James Wallace, a musician, always stays in bed all day when Friday comes on the 13th. He's doing it today.

That 13 and Friday make a lucky combination is vouched for by Paul G. Zieske, 1313 Williamson building. His business has grown considerably in its present quarters and both telephones are numbered 1313 and neither line has ever been out of order.

Many there are who refuse to walk on the left side of the street today and who will keep at least two fingers crossed but there are just as many who refuse to follow the man who has his office on the thirteenth floor and who gets off the elevator at the twelfth floor and walks the rest of the way.

Sure enough the day was gloomy and dark but the weather bureau says the date has nothing to do with the weather.

Dodger Club Is Outclassed and Beaten By Sox

By Frank G. Menke.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—The only logical conclusion that can be drawn from the world series of 1916 is that the American league is at least 20 per cent stronger in all around play than the older circuit. Some there are who will say that the National league was not represented by its strongest team; that such and such a club certainly would have made a different showing than did the Dodgers. But that is not a satisfactory alibi. The National was represented by the team that beat all others in the finish fight, after a struggle of six months, and so it must have been a bit better than any other.

The Giants, it is said, would have given the Red Sox a harder battle. Maybe so—and maybe not. The Giants crashed through to a new major league winning record in September, but the majority of those games were won from disorganized teams. The Giants went straight against the Dodgers in the final series of the season, right after they had won 26 games in a row. And the Giants were beaten to a pulp by the same Dodgers.

The natural conclusion is that the best team did win the pennant. The National, that the old league was represented by the strongest organization it had in 1916. And that outfit met the American league on an even and was bumped into oblivion in five games.

Those who have watched the games of the 1916 series have seen the difference in the playing of the two leagues.

Why? Largely because the American goes out for youngsters, develops them quickly and keeps fresh young blood in the line-ups all the time. The National, on the other hand, likes to hold onto the old timers. It is not extremely friendly to youngsters.

The tendency of most National clubs is to get a falling star by the winter route in favor of grabbing a veteran to replace him gradually.

Also it was minus the fighting spirit that is necessary for victory. In the most critical moments the Dodgers' defense had a tendency to crack. Its batters were important. They never could rise to emergencies with any consistency, while the Sox always played their greatest baseball, and performed most brilliantly at field or at bat when their work counted the most toward success.

It was a classy team against a fair team that lacked much in courage and skill and brains. And the result was inevitable.

TOM AND DICK

By ISABEL LEE.

Tom's wife sat before her dressing table putting the finishing touches to her afternoon toilet.

"Little do you know how worried I am," Tom's wife sighed pathetically. "But I won't bother you with my troubles. You have so much to be happy about and so many plans to make for the wedding."

Dick's fiancée bit her pretty lips. "I'm not at all sure there is going to be any wedding," she said. "I don't even know whether to go down to shop or not," added the younger woman. "What's the use of getting the things when I don't know whether I shall want the wedding veil and white satin and the rest? But don't talk about poor little me. I'd so much rather know why you are worrying."

Tom's wife laughed softly. "First it was the teacup," she said. "It was the morning he asked me for a lemon. The next evening he had a mysterious little package when he came home. It was a horrid, sticky, teacup. 'Well, the next night it happened again—such a horrid old cup. That kept on for several days. I asked him outright what it was all about. 'Well, you have caught me, snookums, haven't you?' Those were the very words he used and then he laughed a little, rather sheepishly, and tried to kiss me. 'I didn't want to tell you at first,' he said. 'I thought you'd make a fuss about it. But that new English secretary—'

"That new English secretary—and that was the first time that I had even heard of the creature—he said had to have tea. They all do in London," he said.

"You've never had tea with me," I said, "and now for this brazen English secretary. But why make a fool of yourself by bringing the cups home?"

"That's where the joke comes in," he said laughing. "I thought of getting Miss Stebbins to wash them, but she rebelled."

"Just because I am a woman, I suppose you think I must do the drudgery. I never washed a dish in my life. If you want a servant you should have hired one, and not a stenographer," said Miss Stebbins.

"I am sure I don't at all blame Miss Stebbins," I said.

"You did perfectly right," said Dick's fiancée. "I know all about it. I found Dick carrying not only one, but two cups home at night—his and the secretary's. He even brought them around to wash, and then he told me, just as Tom did you, about the creature. Only he wouldn't say much and I said less. I didn't want him to tell you that I was jealous and it is not really that. Only, of course, if that is the kind of man Dick is, if he is the sort who stoops to office flirtations."

held their tea orgies every afternoon. And in less than half an hour the two women had started downtown with all the intense excitement of a real adventure.

"It isn't as if we were doing anything underhanded," assured Tom's wife. "For I am sure any wife has a right to call at her husband's office. Do you suppose they sent way to London for her? I don't see why they couldn't have got some honest, deserving American girl who would have been quite satisfactory."

They had reached the office and Tom's wife went in first. Tom and Dick were both in and showed no end of pleasure at the visit. They took them right into Tom's big, roomy office.

"Stick around for a half hour more," Tom said, "and you can have tea with us. It's a great institution, isn't it, Dick?" Both Tom's wife and Dick's fiancée smiled coldly. But it was part of their plot to stay they peered around every corner and listened for every sound, expecting to see the willowy blonde appear. But the only petticoats they saw were worn by the sourfaced Miss Stebbins, who sat pounding away relentlessly at her typewriter.

"Maybe we can get the ladies to wash up the dishes," suggested Tom. "It's such a nuisance to have to cart them home with us."

Tom's wife had her cue and, while Dick's fiancée fairly trembled at what she felt was bound to follow, she began: "It seems to me that the English secretary had better do the dishwashing, since it was the English secretary's idea to have tea."

Tom and Dick began to laugh. "That's a good one," said Tom, and then, at his summons, a tall, fine-looking, middle-aged, well-tailored man appeared.

"The wife says you ought to wash the dishes," Tom repeated with a laugh, and then he introduced them all. You see it was Mr. Harry Harrison, the new London secretary of the company, whom Tom and Dick wanted favorably to impress and not that mythical, willowy blonde at all. Small Things. As with music, so with poetry it is the little things that pay. Many an indifferent composer has made more out of a single song or waltz than Sir Edward Elgar has made out of "The Dream of Gerontius," and many a poet has received more for a brief lyric than he can hope to get for work that may have cost him months or years of labor. Indeed, a volume of verse often makes less for the author than he receives for three or four pieces printed in magazines or newspapers. It is the same with less exalted matters. The inventor of a patent collar stud or boot protector will make more money than the inventor of something that really benefits the human race. The little thing that every one wants is the thing that pays, whether in trade or art. Heroic accomplishment has the heroic reward of starvation.

KICK

For Municipal Ownership DOES NOT COME FROM TELEPHONE SUBSCRIBERS.

Has it ever occurred to you that a movement in public or political affairs might be judged by its advocates?

Do you realize that the merits of a theory might be reflected in the personnel of its following?

Can you apply to ideas the adage that a man is judged by his friends?

In the municipal ownership agitation by which certain individuals hope to make the local telephone plant a city institution, you are offered an opportunity to apply the tests set forth above. If you are at all doubtful of the merits of the case, the first place to investigate will be the petition turned in calling for a special election on the matter.

There are 826 signers on that petition, counting those which are undecipherable. Geographically they are bunched almost entirely in a small section. It does not represent the entire city. The distribution among the various lines of endeavor is uneven. But there is one significant feature which stands out more than any other.

Of the 826 signers picked from the 10,000 voters of Lima, only 301 are subscribers of the Lima Telephone and Telegraph Company. Consequently 525 of those who want to have the city purchase and run the local system are not telephone subscribers.

In other words, most of those who believe that the city should take over the local plant are men who do not use the telephone. What can they, therefore, know of the service? Are they aware of the speedy responses and accurate operation and private conversations which characterize the Lima service?

TO DARKEN HAIR

APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Attractiveness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a 50-cent bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and lustrous.

This preparation is a delightful toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

REED VENTILATES HYPOCRISY OF G.O.P. ON FOREIGN POLICY

Masterly Address Before St.
Louis Turn-Verein Shows
Up Hughes Badly.

Republican Chief Playing
Double Game to Win Votes
Clearly Proved.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 12.—With American citizens of German ancestry as hosts, Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, at the Tower Grove Turnverein last night carried the message of "War With Germany or Peace" into the very center of the German-born population of this city.

Senator Reed quoted Roosevelt as the war lord who will take the sword against Germany and then quoted the telegram sent the former president by Mr. Justice Hughes, the republican candidate for president, congratulating Roosevelt upon his Maine speech in which he said in effect that the United States should have gone to war with Germany over the invasion of Belgium.

Senator Reed pointed to the dinner of the capitalists in New York City on December 19, 1915, which Roosevelt attended, then to the luncheon of Roosevelt and Mr. Justice Hughes after which the republican candidate said he two were in accord. Mr. Reed's speech in part follows:

"On December 19, 1915, there was held, in the City of New York, a most remarkable dinner, which has since been commonly known as the modern Belshazzar Feast. It was attended by 17 great capitalists, who possessed or directly controlled properties worth one hundred and twenty billion dollars—one-tenth of the aggregate value of all the property of the hundred million people of the United States. A partial list of those attending, together with the amount of money by them represented is interesting.

"Gary, head of the Steel Trust, which together with its subsidiaries, including the Bethlehem Steel Company, is largely engaged in the sale of war supplies.

"Vanderlip, representing two billion dollars, head of the Morgan Bank, the fiscal agent of the allies.

"Guggenheim, representing one and one-half billion dollars, largely interested in war supplies.

"Vanderbilt, representing one and one-half billion dollars.

"Hepburn, representing one and one-half billion dollars.

"Lindabury, general counsel for the Steel Trust.

"Cortelyou, representing the great Standard Oil interests, and others I do not pause to name. But it is safe to say that every man present, save one, was at that time and have ever since been making enormous profits from war supplies furnished the allies.

"Conspicuous at this dinner was George W. Perkins, organizer of the Harvester Trust, a subsidiary of the Morgan interests and owning vast plants in both France and Russia. By his side, the guest of honor, the center of attraction, the politician who was to be converted into a war asset, sat the redoubtable Theodore Roosevelt.

"These gentlemen, by whatsoever name they assembled, speedily resolved themselves into a general directorate for the republican party and have ever since been conspicuous, first, in endeavoring to forest the nomination of Roosevelt upon the republican party and to destroy the progressive party; second, to preach a propaganda of alarm and to endeavor to promote a war sentiment against Germany.

"The dinner had scarcely adjourned until Roosevelt renewed, with increased fervor, his attacks upon the Wilson administration and upon the German-American citizen.

"The plan to nominate Roosevelt was not consummated, but the destruction by betrayal of the insurgent party was carried out according to program.

"Let it not be overlooked that when it was found that the rank and file of the republican convention would not consent to the nomination of Roosevelt, all those leaders who have hitherto been known as close allies of the big interests read-

FOR $1,000,000 ESKIMO WILL
TELL SECRET OF NORTH POLE

MENE WALLACE.

NEW YORK.—This is the time for some public spirited millionaire to step forth and settle once and for all the mystery of who discovered the North Pole, if the fact is still a mystery.

For just a paltry million of dollars the secret will be revealed. Mene Wallace, who as a boy of 14 made his first trip to this country as a member of the band of Eskimos which Peary brought back with him in 1907, has again reached our shores from his home in the north, bringing with him, so he says, the secret of the discovery of the northern terminus of the earth's axis.

"I have come to tell the people of New York all about the discovery of the North Pole," said Mene as soon as he had informed the reporters that he was the same individual who had once lived here in the home of William Wallace, superintendent of the Museum of Natural History.

To specific queries he added, "But first I must have a million dollars."

"It's worth more, but I'm no big," said Mene. "I can live well in Greenland on the income from a million."

The Eskimo refused to be more explicit and gave no indication whether his unsold story would favor the contention of Admiral Peary or Dr. Cook.

ily united in support of Mr. Hughes. "The question remaining to be determined is the attitude of candidate Hughes. The record leaves no room for doubt.

"The American people must now take their choice between those methods which have kept the country at peace and methods which are to be inspired and dictated by Theodore Roosevelt and the other advisors of Charles Evans Hughes.

"If Wilson is re-elected, we know the kind of cabinet he will select.

"If Hughes is elected, and follows ordinary customs, he will name, as secretary of state, Elihu Root. It will be entirely logical for him to name as secretary of war, Theodore Roosevelt, and to recall to his cabinet the former associate of Roosevelt, Mr. Cortelyou, who attended the Gary dinner and who represents the Standard Oil Company and all its vast industrial alliances. Perhaps the cabinet will be further adorned by the presence of Boies Penrose, the advocate and defender of the Bethlehem Steel Company on the floor of the United States senate.

"One thing is absolutely certain: That Henry Cabot Lodge, by virtue of his position at the head of the republican membership of the foreign relations committee of the senate, will supplant William J. Stone.

"In the light of all this, is it not fair, therefore, to say that the election of Mr. Hughes portends the abandonment of Wilson's policies for those which make for war?

"The people of the United States might as well face the cold facts: If Hughes were to be inaugurated president of the United States on the fourth day of March, and were the next day to send a message to congress demanding a declaration of war against Germany, he could say to the American people, with perfect fairness, that he gave them abundant warning of his intent. He could, with absolute justice, assert that the repudiation of Wilson was the repudiation of a policy of peace and an instruction for one of war.

"Do the American people want this frightful calamity?

"A war with Germany cannot be waged with paper bullets. It would demand the best of our youth. It would ravish every American home of its first-born. It would sprinkle the limits on the doors of cottage and farmhouse with blood drawn from the hearts of our sons. It would arrest our industrial development; impoverish our people; burden us with taxes, and roll back the clock of our civilization against the rocks of barbarism.

"If in the end we were to conquer and crush Germany we could gain not one whit more by the expenditure of an ocean of blood and tears than Woodrow Wilson has gained by peaceful diplomacy.

"The American people will not harken to the cry of the wild beast so long as our honor and safety are secure."

HAPPINESS COMES FROM—

There is a love story in the October American Magazine in which the writer makes a character say:

"True happiness comes from wanting very hard to do the things which are right, and some-times being able to do them. One of the things which is eternally right in this world is to mate with someone whom your heart and soul desires and be the mother of his children. If it is right to love babies—and you think it is, don't you Clara?—it is right to want the father for them. Poor little wisps of helplessness, to be molded into minds and souls by every breath of environment, can they who are born of reluctant marriage be the same as those who are born of perfect love? Clara, my dear, don't let a split hair of conscience stand in the way of one of the great varieties of life!"
